

Mega Ginseng Blend

Dietary supplement for good health and well-being.

Throughout ancient Oriental history this versatile herb was praised for its exceptional nutritional content, including vitamins, minerals, enzymes and co-enzymes. Given its high regard in China, ginseng root was chewed by many because it was thought ginseng improved health, reduced mental and physical fatigue, increased vitality and helped slow down the aging process.

A perennial herb, ginseng commonly grows wild in sloped wooded regions. Ginseng works throughout the body, boosting overall resistance to adverse influences. By increasing mental and physical efficiency, it helps prevent fatigue and naturally supports the body's energy and vitality.*

The ginseng plant is a large, fleshy root, two to three inches in length and 1/2 to 1 inch in thickness. The color is usually pale yellow or brownish and some describe the taste as similar to licorice or anise—warm, slightly sweet and slightly bitter. The stems of the plant can grow a foot high, dividing into leaflets with small yellow flower which eventually turn into small reddish berries.

The most commonly used type of ginseng is the Asian ginseng, also known as Panax ginseng. Siberian ginseng is another well-known form of ginseng. Mega Ginseng Blend combines several different kinds of the world's best ginsengs to ensure that you get the highest-quality product on the market.

Ginseng is a most effective adaptogen that has a normalizing effect on body functions.* It also contributes to energy levels and may help reduce the effects of stress.* Today, Asians commonly consume this herb in tea, use the root in soup or add it to other culinary delights.
